

Red Dress Day

May 5th is Red Dress Day – the day people are asked to wear red or hang a red dress in a public place in remembrance and honour of Missing and/or Murdered Indigenous Women.

We here at the United Native Friendship Centre will be honouring missing and murdered Indigenous women on Thursday, May 2, 2019.

The day will start at 11:00 a.m. with a smudge and reflection of remembrance and honour.

Lunch will follow. Everyone is invited to attend!
